Description
The user agent of GNU IceCat 52.1.0 does not match with the user agent that shows the version 45.0. It makes that some web browsers have an incorrect info about the web browser which it is based.

History

the following snippet is taken from upstream's scripts that create icecat-52.1 from firefox:

// Spoof the useragent to a generic one pref("general.useragent.override", "Mozilla/5.0 (Windows NT 6.1; rv:45.0) Gecko/20100101 Firefox/45.0");

this is either a mistake by upstream, and should be reported there, or it is by design. either way, I don't think we should change it.
