Trying to make an ISO results in conflict of two grub versions being installed. An easy solution would be to remove grub 0.97.

I created and released parabola-archiso package. It works now as it removes Grub 1 in the chroot (<https://projects.parabolagnulinux.org/archiso.git/commit/?id=a0b03b4d08c108f752151aeb6a0b6b64629e9e01>). This is needed because Grub 1 is on base group in Parabola but not in Arch anymore.

Maybe we should remove grub from base? It might be better to have a bootloader supported by upstream (both GNU and Arch) and supporting more installation configurations by default.
