Also reported as <https://bugs.archlinux.org/task/58519> to Arch. It seems better to either create a package in libre, or to blacklist it until the Arch package is built from source

Arch issue has been resolved, and judging by the PKGBUILD, the package is built from source now. However, I don't use the package, so didn't investigate if any pre-compiled binaries are still downloaded during the build process.
