Description After recent spam, some changes were done. However, they are not enough: <ol style="list-style-type: none"><li>1. CAPTCHA: not secure against targeted attacks</li><li>2. Two posts required: it is possible to do them easily</li><li>3. Two days required: spammers will register many accounts and start activity after two days</li></ol>

- Status changed from open to not-a-bug

this sort of thing is not like a normal feature - it is more of an evolving process, that should be of no concern to users - it is entirely extra workload upon the admins with zero benefit to anyone, managing some balance of erecting hurdles, explaining why they are there, and cleaning up what falls through the cracks the only consideration is to minimize the amount of developer time that is wasted by these useless chores
