Description I'm proposing a new logo for Parabola GNU/Linux, my thought are on the image attached to this issue. I did a purple version and place it along with the orange version originally proposed, take in account that such orange is the Archlinux blue inverted. as soon as people decide what to do so we will have a new face to show :)

I changed the color Magenta for a real purple, it looks better than the former. But I don't know what the others think about this purple

Anyway, I'll love to hear opinions and use the new design (after few fixes, of course!)

I like #800080 but the parabolas inside the parabola look strange after a closer look (I'm guessing on t-shirts it will require more cuts and tiny pieces too) fauno, what was the other color "purple" that you show me the last time?

That's actually right and I'm trying to fix that!!

There are the final proposals [<https://my.owndrive.com/public.php?service=files&t=74479bcf5ee371224999b5df2c866f87>]

I still need to make the printable version of our new logo, but it is yet usable. Here is the new replacement of the file [<https://parabolagnulinux.org/static/archnavbar/parabolabw.png>] it's [<https://my.owndrive.com/public.php?service=files&t=74479bcf5ee371224999b5df2c866f87>]

That image is higher than the old one (for just 50px) because the new logo is not visible enough at 50px of height.

I like it, good job

Could you make a Faenza icon? I miss faenza-icon-theme!

I'm attempting to roll out the upgrade to parabolaweb software and logo at the same time. If it doesn't happen tomorrow though, I'll go ahead and update the logo without the software.

What about using this in the banner? I used Shackra's, but scaled up the text relative to the graphic, so that the text would be legible, but the whole thing wouldn't be huge.

And this for the favicon:

I updated the logos on parabolaweb last night; also included was a new silhouette for hackers without a picture.

But I did not change the favicon on all the other domains. The navbar should cascade because it loads the CSS cross-domain, but the favicon needs to be updated on each.

You mean, like one distro icon for the icon theme?

Exactly, it was blacklisted because the default distro icon is Arch's logo
