Description Whilst this package is already in the libre repo and has a lot of proprietary data removed, it turns out that even more proprietary data is lurking within. The Adam Bolt 16×16 tiles have no license and as such are proprietary. There may be proprietary headers for Windows. I fear there may be even more proprietary files which have not been spotted yet. See https://github.com/angband/angband/issues/5176 for more information.

It turns out there are no proprietary header files, but .dll files which do not get bundled into the built package, but are present in the source tree.

Bump: the proprietary tiles remain in the Parabola repos.
