Description This bug is meant to track freedom issues affecting core components in Parabola.  For instance Pacman is a core component in Parabola since almost anything else depend on it.  Libretools is also required for working on Parabola as well as package definitions.  While there are often freedom issues found in regular packages (for instance a game being nonfree) the impact of these is more limited because it only affect a subset of users and doesn't affect packages required to contribute to Parabola (which are needed to fix these issues in the first place). Some packages (like u-boot for instance) can be critical to some users or use cases but don't affect all the users and contributors to Parabola.
