Description
Also, your-privacy package should be included in base package group, just as your-freedom, for being installed on every possible machine. I myself used that version of programs with privacy-breaking features just because of being not aware of [nonprism]. I think, some more attention and even promotion is needed for privacy-related topics, for (especially new) users be aware of it (as Parabola GNU/Linux gives them not only freedom, but also privacy! :))
